Anglo-French Armies Gradually Closing on Combles.

SHATTER TEUTON DEFENSES

Russians Batter at Hungary's Gates While Czar Hurls Legions at Germans from Pripet Region to Carpathian Passes.

London, Sept. 6.—Gradually the lines of the entente allies are drawing more closely about Combles and toward Peronne. Farther and farther their wedges are being driven into the German lines both north and south of the River Somme.

On a front of about twenty-five miles the French and British troops, supported powerfully by their enormous artillery arm, are still hammering the German positions and sustaining, unflinchingly, heavy counter attacks.

North of the Somme to the east and southeast of Forest, the French drove forward their lines capturing the outskirts of the Andrin wood, hospital farm, and the Raimette wood and part of Marrieres wood and a position on the road leading from Bouchavesnes to Clerly.

Near Ginchy, to the north of Guillemont, the British also continued their advance, winning all the territory between the Falfemont farm and Leuze wood and between that wood and the outskirts of the town of Ginchy, which they captured and have held since the fighting of Sunday.

South of the Somme the French have taken the town of Chilly, situated one mile west of the railroad leading from Chaulnes to Roye, a line of trenches east of Soyecourt and numerous isolated positions between Vermandovillers and Chilly.

Since Sunday the French alone have taken on the Somme front 6,550 prisoners and thirty-six guns.

Violent on Eastern Front.

On the Eastern front violent fighting continues from the Pripet marsh region in Volhynia, through Galicia, and up in the Carpathian passes.

The Russians reported successes near Vladimir-Volynski and a continuance of their advance toward the plains of Hungary through the Carpathians.

Berlin reports that in Galicia, in the region of Brzezany, and near Pundul Moldowl, in the Carpathian region, heavy Russian attacks were repulsed, in the latter district with heavy casualties.

In Eastern Roumania the Germans and Bulgarians captured the fortified bridgehead of Tutrakan and the Bulgarians the town of Dobrich.

Petrograd reports the cutting down of a Bulgarian outpost by Russian cavalry in its first engagement with the invaders on Roumanian soil. Near Ognott in Turkish Armenia violent fighting between Turks and Russians is taking place. Both Petrograd and Constantinople report successes here for their respective armies.

The Italians captured several additional positions from the Austrians in the Upper Vovri region of the Austro-Italian theater and repulsed violent Austrian counter attacks.

Aside from military activity there has been no fighting in the Macedonian theater.

F. A. Bonnar, chief counsel for the government, filed twenty-three objections to Judge Prendergast's address to the jury, taking particular exception to the statement that there was less evidence against Sir Redmond than against the other two defendants. The case was given to the jury after a trial which continued nearly six weeks.

GENERAL FOCH.

VON HINDENBURG SEES RETREAT OF GERMANS

Paris, Sept. 6.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg has arrived on the Western front for the first time since the beginning of the war and is urging his commanders to a more stubborn defense along the Somme.

He witnessed the retreat of the German armies under British and French blows in Sunday and Monday's fighting. It was the first great battle in which the Teutons have been engaged since Von Hindenburg was appointed chief of the German general staff.

The Germans are fighting desperately, but during the last twenty-four hours have been pushed steadily eastward by the impetuous French attacks. General Foch struck south of the Somme Monday, while the body of Teuton reserves were preparing to resist another great smash north of the river.

The French success on this new onslaught equals the successes of the British on the preceding day.

Soyecourt was occupied and, extending their gains far to the south, the French occupied the village of Chilly. The outskirts of three other villages were seized and about 3,000 prisoners were taken.

LA FOLLETTE RENOMINATED

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 6.—Primary election returns indicate United States Senator La Follette has been renominated over M. G. Jeffries of Janesville.

While the senator showed a loss in some of his former strongholds, he seems to be running ahead in Milwaukee county and the western part of the state.

The Republican state ticket undoubtedly will be headed by Governor E. L. Philipp, who apparently carries with him Henry Johnson as nominee for state treasurer.

The La Follette faction appears to have nominated E. F. Dithmar for lieutenant governor, Merlin Hull for secretary of state and Walter Owen for attorney general, the nominees on the whole being two Philipp candidates and three La Follette followers.

The Philbin mine is the only Oliver Iron Co. underground in this district not working.

Between Two Kings

KING OF GREECE. EMPEROR OF GERMANY. QUEEN OF GREECE

No queen in Europe is in just the kind of trouble that bothers Queen Sophie of Greece. Other queens have their troubles growing from the war, one at least has temporarily lost her throne. But Queen Sophie is the sister of the kaiser of Germany and the husband of the king of Greece. The people of Greece, it is believed, stand with the allies, and though King Constantine was raised in the German army and leans toward Germany, the day has passed when kings may go too far against the will of their people. Thus the queen, all of whose leaning is toward Germany, is struggling hard to decide whether she must stick to her brother or her husband.

CHINESE DENOUNCE JAPANESE DEMANDS

Peking, Sept. 6.—The Chinese press strongly denounce the Japanese demands made on China in connection with the conflict between Chinese and Japanese troops at Cheng Chiatun, Mongolia, on Aug. 13, which resulted in the killing or wounding of many on both sides. The Peking Gazette says: "The demands of Baron Hayashi (Japanese minister to China), on China respecting the Cheng Chiatun incident have created profound disappointment. At the moment China was beginning to credit the Japanese with good will, Tokio took a step which is unintelligible except on the theory of continuity of the Japanese policy as applied against Yuan Shi Kai. That policy is aggressive, if not predatory. China alone and single-handed cannot withstand its pressure."

The Gazette asserts that the demands threaten China's sovereignty and urges the appointment of an investigating commission composed of representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia.

SEEKS APOLOGY FOR ATTACKS

Japan Demands Concessions Throughout Oriental Empire.

UNITED STATES WILL INQUIRE

"Special Rights" Involved May Interfere With American Policy of the Open Door in Far East—Lansing Silent on Attitude.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Sweeping demands, far more drastic than any published summaries have indicated, are revealed in the secret terms being pressed on China by Japan as a result of the recent armed conflict at Cheng Chiatun in Inner Mongolia.

Private dispatches received here reveal that Japan seeks indemnities, an apology and political concessions throughout the whole section of inner Mongolia and South Manchuria.

Four Formal Demands.

The four formal demands are quoted as follows:

One—Punishment of the commanding Chinese officer involved in the trouble.

Two—Dismissal, with punishment, of the other officers involved.

Three—Instructions to Chinese troops in Inner Mongolia and South Manchuria not to interfere in any way with Japanese troops or civilians, and to publish this fact broadly.

Four—Recognition of "special interests" for Japan in Inner Mongolia and South Manchuria, comprising powers of police and administration, preference in loans and the selection of all foreign advisers, etc.

Concessions Sought.

Besides the four "demands" are four concessions which China is asked to grant Japan without formal demand, as follows:

One—The Chinese army in South Manchuria and Eastern Mongolia to employ Japanese military advisers.

Two—Chinese schools and colleges to have Japanese military inspectors.

Three—A formal apology in person from the Chinese governor of Mukden to the Japanese governor at Dairen and the Japanese consul at Mukden for the Chang Chiatun trouble.

Four—Monetary compensation to the families of the Japanese killed, the amounts to be settled by later negotiations.

Secretary Lansing refused to comment on the dispatches or to outline what might be the attitude of the American government.

It is known, however, that steps will be taken immediately by the state department through Minister Reinsch at Peking to obtain detailed reports and learn the full significance of Japan's act.

Mr. Hughes' declaration apparently referred to the act of congress in passing the eight-hour bill.

"We have a new spirit abroad in these recent days in America," Mr. Hughes said.

"It is the spirit that says: 'Legislate now and investigate afterward.' It is the spirit of force. It is not American."

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 6.—A safe in the office of the Majestic theater was blown open with nitroglycerin and about $400 taken.

Manager Roy Cummins previously had removed about $1,000, receipts for Saturday and Sunday, to another place. The explosion, heard by several, was attributed to a tire or backfire of an automobile, and no report was made to the police.

WILSON'S ACTIONS DELAY CONGRESS

Legislation Concerning Strike Postpones Adjournment.

SIX WEEKS MAY BE NEEDED

Even the Most Optimistic Assert That They Cannot Get Away From Washington Before Middle of September. Effect of Recommendations Will Be Far-reaching.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Sept. 4.—[Special.]—If congress could act as quickly as the president there would have been no need of the consternation which was caused when the railroad situation was passed on to the lawmaking body. Congress has disposed of the railroad problem in a few days if it were as diligent and active as the executive in disposing of public business.

But congress is not active; congress is deliberate, and congress also has a way of making long and searching inquiries and longer and less searching official speeches when such a subject as the railroad problem is considered.

Month or Six Weeks.

Estimates of a month or six weeks were made as to the prolongation of the session on account of the latest move by President Wilson. Some of the most pessimistic individuals thought it would take at least six weeks to enact all the legislation recommended in order to meet the railroad labor questions, while the real optimists thought everything could be disposed of by the middle of September.

Far-reaching Effect.

After mature consideration it was concluded that the ultimate effect of the president's recommendations will be far-reaching. It is generally believed by men in Washington that there will be some difficulties in putting in operation all he suggested, but even that which congress deems necessary and will enact must be important upon future relations between capital and labor.

Four Thousand the Dividing Line.

Congress quite a long time ago decided that $4,000 was the dividing line between rich and poor, and that line is maintained. The man with an income of more than $4,000 is rich enough to pay income taxes. The man below that amount is poor enough to escape. Of course such exemptions are purely class legislation, but this government has gone a long way in the direction of legislation for different classes and against certain classes, and the probabilities are that it will go still further in the future. It might be well to remember in this connection that one class has the votes—the poorer class—which attempts are made to favor.

Kitchen Not Pleased.

While quite a large number of Democrats showed great pleasure over the final completion of the army and navy bills which go so far toward preparedness, Claude Kitchen, the house leader, did not display any great amount of pleasure. It did not look good to him, this expenditure of $500,000,000 in order to be ready to fight somebody somewhere, we don't know just whom or when.

Long Conference Disputes.

The present congress has been remarkable for long conference disputes. Bills often remain in conference for more than a month because the conferees fail to agree. "If I was on a conference," remarked Senator Martin of Virginia, and he has been on many, "I'd either have an agreement or I would stop conferring. It is the most childish thing I ever knew for grown men to meet and go over and over the same ground and come to the same result. To settle these questions one way or another or I'd stop talking about them."

One of the bills in dispute had been considered by Martin's committee, but he was not on the conference.

Adamson Sarcastic.

Chairman Adamson of the committee which deals with railway problems has often been brought in contact with Senator Newlands, chairman of the similar committee in the senate. No one was more interested than the Georgia member when it was known that the railroad problem was to be thrown into congress, and one day he delivered this sarcastic remark:

"I do not know just what we will do, I see the president has been over to the senate to consult Newlands, which is the greatest public calamity that could have happened."

The Nevada senator is one of the most lovable men in congress, but he is thought to be impracticable in legislation.

Talk About Appropriations.

There is a little talk now and again about the large appropriations by this congress. Sometimes it takes on the character of a scrap, especially when Minority Leader Mann and John Fitzgerald lock horns or Cox of Indiana and Moore of Pennsylvania get into ex-changing comments. At such times the colloquies become scraps and a war of words words fling back and forth across the middle aisle.

It is evident that the Republicans intend to make the expenditures a part of the campaign talk.

THE WORD "LOVE."

In the Orient it Means to Like or is Used to Express Good Will.

The word "love" has been more highly specialized in the west than in the east. In its proper English use it means only that ardent, anxious feeling which cannot be created by will and design. In the west the word "love" has been relieved of the function of expressing the less ardent desires, such as the terms "to like," "to have good will toward" and "to be well disposed toward" simply.

Not so in the east. The word "like," meaning "to be favorably inclined toward," is not found either in the Bible or in the Arabic Bible. In the English version of the Bible it is used in two places, but the translation is incorrect. In the twenty-fifth chapter of Deuteronomy and the seventh verse, "If the man like not to take his brother's wife," should be rendered "If the man 'consent' not," and in the fourth chapter of Amos, the fifth verse, "For this liketh you, O ye children of Israel," is in the original, "For this ye 'loved,' O ye children of Israel." In any standard concordance of the Bible the Hebrew verb ahab—to love—precedes these quotations.

So to its orientalists the only word which can express any cordial inclination of approval is "love." One loves his wife and children and loves grapes and figs and meat, if he likes these things. An employer says to an employee, "If you 'love' to work for me according to this agreement you can."

It is nothing uncommon for one to say to a casual acquaintance whom he likes, "I must say, sahib (friend), that I love you." I know of no equivalent in the Arabic for the phrase, "I am interested in you." "Love" and "hate" are the usual terms by which to express approval and disapproval, as well as real love and hatred.

From all this it may be seen that when the Great Oriental Teacher said to his countrymen, who considered all other clans than their own as their enemies, "Love your enemies," he did not mean that they should be enamored of them, but that they should have good will toward them. We cannot love by will and design, but we certainly can will to be well disposed even toward those who, we believe, have ill will toward us.—Abraham Mitre Ribhony in Atlantic Monthly.

Too Good.

"Strange Mary doesn't have any offers! She'd make some man a good wife."

"Yes, but the trouble is every one knows she'd make him a good husband too!"—J. H.

Artificial Limbs*Cannot Support Jag

Rome, Italy, Aug. 14 (By Mail)—The wooden leg that Charles Swain of Indiana sells for a Washington, D. C., artificial limb house, brought to Italy, created all kinds of trouble for Gizi, an Italian soldier, whose legs were shot off in the Trentino. Swain took a simple pair of legs to the Mirafiori hospital, planning to demonstrate their worth and then sell a car load of them to the Italian government. He hooked the pair on to Gizi who pounded around for an hour before he got the knack of artificial walking and then started on a tour of the hospital.

After Swain had finished conferring with the hospital heads, he looked about for Gizi. He was gone and so were the legs. Soldiers were sent out to search for Gizi. They scoured the neighborhood, but night came on and Gizi and the expensive artificial legs were missing. Next morning when the hospital gates were opened, a dirty bundle of rags was discovered lying in a heap on the road. It was Gizi. He had toured all the neighboring wine shops. The best pair of artificial legs in the world could not support the load Gizi brought back.

In the Orient it Means to Like or is Used to Express Good Will.

The word "love" has been more highly specialized in the west than in the east. In its proper English use it means only that ardent, amorous feeling which cannot be created by will and design. In the west the word "love" has been relieved of the function of expressing the least ardent desires, such as the terms "to like," "to have good will toward" and "to be well disposed toward" simply.

Not so in the east. The word "like," meaning "to be favorably inclined toward," is not found either in the Bible or in the Arabic tongue. In the English version of the Bible it is used in two places, but the translation is incorrect. In the twenty-fifth chapter of Deuteronomy and the seventh verse, "If the man like not to take his brother's wife," should be rendered "If the man consent not," and in the fourth chapter of Amos, the fifth verse, "For this lieth you, O ye children of Israel," is in the original, "For this ye loved, O ye children of Israel." In any standard concordance of the Bible the Hebrew verb ahab—to love—precedes these quotations.

So in so oriental the only word which can express any cordial inclination of approval is "love." One loves his wife and children and loves grapes and figs and meat, if he likes these things. An employer says to an employee, "If you love to work for me according to this agreement you can." It is nothing uncommon for one to say to a casual acquaintance whom he likes, "I must say, really friend, that I love you." I know of no equivalent in the Arabic for the phrase, "I am interested in you." "Love" and "hate" are the usual terms by which to express approval and disapproval, as well as real love and hatred.

From all this it may be seen that when the Great Oriental Teacher said to his countrymen, who considered all other clans than their own as their enemies, "Love your enemies," he did not mean that they should be enumerated of them, but that they should have good will toward them. We cannot love by will and design, but we certainly can will to be well disposed even toward those who, we believe, have ill will toward us.—Abraham Mitre Ribbony in Atlantic Monthly.

Too Good.

"Strange Mary doesn't have any others! She'd make some man a good wife."

"Yes, but the trouble is every one knows she'd make him a good husband too."—Lila.

Some Fascinating Things in Lingerie—Petticoats From Paris, New Coats and Sleeves

In Gauthier's Salons, have recently made their appearance, some fascinating new things in lingerie. For instance, there is a pink crepon affair which at first glance appears to be a night dress with a pleated skirt, but which on further investigation develops a kinship to the pajama, for the skirt is divided into delightful little pleated trousers. The gown is girdled with black velvet and has black velvet bows on the shoulders.

A combination, like to no combination which has ever been before, is made of rose-colored voile de sole with a bodice of black tulle and turned up ruffles of black tulle at the lower edge of the knickerbockers. Not quite so extreme but quite as delightful is a white voile de sole combination, flecked top and bottom with a border of little black tulle triangles.

A new idea is given expression in some petticoats just received from Paris. One of these is of gold-colored jersey cloth. It has a pleated ruffle of made-up vertical strips of dark blue and gold jersey cloth alternating. This ruffle is in turn banded with navy blue and gold effect which is new and most attractive.

That coats, as well as skirts, will be longer during the autumn and winter, there is no doubt. One reason for the lengthening of the coat, is the prevalence of fur trimming. In order to display furs attractively, a certain length of line is necessary, otherwise the effect is inclined to be bunched.

Sleeves are again making their appearance in evening gowns. Sometimes they are a mere wisp of tulle or lace, but sleeves they are nevertheless. To the woman who is not blessed with an arm beautifully molded from wrist to shoulder, this news will be most agreeable, for while the sleeveless gown was very attractive, none can deny that it was difficult to wear—From H. W. Gosard Corset Co., courtesy H. F. Michael Co.

State Board of Health Required Medical Examinations Made in School Districts Where

INFANTILE PARALYSIS LOCATED

State Public Health Association to Maintain Staff of Experienced Nurses to Assist

(Minnesota Public Health Assn.) (Dr. L. J. Murphy, Executive Sec'y.) A resolution requiring the medical examination before admission to school of all school children in districts where there has been infantile paralysis was passed at a special meeting of the State Board of Health held August 24th.

These examinations will be made under the direct supervision of the local health officer. To assist the various communities in this work, the Minnesota Public Health association will maintain a staff of experienced visiting nurses to be sent anywhere on request.

"School children, not only where there is infantile paralysis, but, in all districts, should be more adequately safeguarded from infantile paralysis and all infectious diseases than now obtains" is the warning issued by Dr. L. J. Murphy of the Minnesota Public Health association.

"School children in every community of the state can secure health supervision without a very great expense. All localities need not have the services of a physician, but all should have at least the services of a school nurse.

"Communities that are unable to employ a permanent nurse should at least have one temporarily for annual or semi-annual inspection and examination. Accordingly the Health association will maintain a staff of experienced nurses and will send a nurse to any community whether there have been cases of infantile paralysis there or not. They will be sent on request of a school board or of a private committee for as long or short a time as desired. Many communities of the state are going to sell Red Cross Christmas seals to enable them to demonstrate to local officials the need and value of a nurse."

Temporary school nurses have been employed in the following towns:

Town	Population
Barnesville	1,353
Bemidji	5,099

The nurses that the Health association have been sending out have been able to care for from one to two hundred pupils per week. This, of course, depends upon the number of parents that have to be interviewed and upon the number of other things the nurse is called upon to do. Besides the handling of children and securing treatment for defective troubles, the nurses make a general survey and lecture at community meetings. Communities of three or four hundred usually keep a visiting nurse for one week. Communities of one thousand for two weeks, and larger communities for a month or longer.

Was It an Anniversary Ghost?

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

One night—it was 12 o'clock—a cabman was jogging along through Wall street, New York, half asleep on his box, when he was accosted from the sidewalk by a man whose apparel made coachy blink his eyes to assure himself that he saw aright. To begin at the top of his head, he wore a beaver hat with a large bell crown and a rim curled at the sides. His coat was very high in the collar, his necktie was voluminous lace, the buttons on his clothes were brass, his breeches were what we call knickerbockers.

Coachy drove to the sidewalk, and the gentleman, without asking permission, opened the door and stepped inside.

"To Greenwich," he called as he closed the door behind him. "Up Greenwich street, sir?"

"Yes."

That part of New York which was originally Greenwich Village is several miles from where the stranger entered the coach, and the cabman would rather have declined to make a fare so late in the evening. But there was something about the stranger that was compelling. When the cab reached Greenwich and cabby asked for further instructions the man inside only said, "Drive on." Cabby seemed awed by the tone in which the words were spoken and dared not ask another question, so he drove on in the direction he was going, northward, till he reached the river bank. The man inside stepped from the cab without calling on coachy to stop, and when he touched the ground there seemed not to be the slightest shock. As he walked away he fixed his eyes on the cabman with a look that made him forget all about the omission to pay the fare. Indeed, a cold chill ran down the man's back. Going to the margin of the river, his figure seemed to float along, growing more and more indistinct till it was lost, as cabby thought, in the water. But this could not be, for there came from where he had disappeared a sound of oars. The sound passed up the river, gradually dying away in the distance.

Now, although the stranger had given no orders to the cabman to await his return, the latter felt no power to do otherwise. He did not think that by going away he would lose the money he had already earned; he remained fixed where he was by the look his fare had given him when he walked away with that unearthly tread.

It was the season when the days are long and dawn begins about 3 o'clock. Coachy sat for perhaps an hour, perhaps two—he could never recall how long it was—waiting there on the river bank, with no human being near, for he says that he was not conscious of the surrounding traffic of the present day. He saw about him only the green bank of the river, behind him the village, in which all were wrapped in slumber. But he is not sure that he was awake, not sure but that he was dreaming. At any rate, he was oblivious to the stranger's return, for the first he knew of it he heard a voice ordering him to drive home. Rousing himself and looking down from the box, he saw his fare's face thrust without the window, looking up at him. The cabman will never forget that face. It was singularly handsome, though so pale as to be rather of the dead than of the living. The expression was that of one who had committed some dreadful crime, one who had killed some one. But in it there was no remorse. It was rather triumph.

"Home!" said the stranger. The cabman did not know and did not dare ask where home was. He knew that he had taken up his fare on Wall street, and for that location he headed.

In the twilight the city seemed changed. All the landmarks of a metropolis were missing. Turning out of Broadway at Wall street, he drove down till he reached the point where Broad joins it. This was where he had taken up his fare. Here, too, was not the office of the great banking house which is there, but a small brick dwelling. The stranger called on him to stop, and he drove up to the curb.

Coachy says that when this singular being alighted he cast his eye at a dwelling on the opposite side of Wall street a short distance down toward the East river and looked for a moment at it with malignant triumph; then, turning, without mentioning the money he owed for his ride, he mounted the steps of a dwelling before him and seemed to pass through the door without opening it.

Coachy was found that morning in a stupor on his box and about to fall. He was removed to a hospital, whence he did not emerge for several weeks. When he did so he narrated the adventure of that memorable night to a gentleman who happened to be a scholar. All the information he received was this:

The house the strange man entered was once occupied by Aaron Burr. Alexander Hamilton lived on the opposite side of Wall street a little way farther down toward the East river. The night of the adventure was the hundredth anniversary of the duel fought between Hamilton and Burr, in which Hamilton was killed.

Perhaps the vision came to the cabman as he was entering a severe illness rather than being the cause of it. The singular feature is that it should have come to an illiterate man.

IT'S SEVEN YEARS OLD

But Mr. Ellison Says It's Just as Good Today as When It Was First Made

Seven years ago Mr. Ellison testified to complete relief from kidney ills.

He now says that there has not been the slightest return of the trouble.

Brainerd sufferers will take a deal of comfort in Mr. Ellison's statement. Read what he says:

Charles Ellison, 512 S. Quince St., Brainerd, says: "My kidneys were disordered for several years and seemed to be gradually getting worse. I was taken with such awful pains in my back that I had to go to bed. Medicine patched me up somewhat and I got out in a few weeks, but I continued to suffer severely. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at H. P. Dunn's drug store and a few boxes put me in good shape." (Statement given September 1st, 1908)

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER, Mr. Ellison said: "I can still recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. The benefit I got has lasted."

The nurses that the Health association have been sending out have been able to care for from one to two hundred pupils per week. This, of course, depends upon the number of parents that have to be interviewed and upon the number of other things the nurse is called upon to do. Besides the handling of children and securing treatment for defective troubles, the nurses make a general survey and lecture at community meetings. Communities of three or four hundred usually keep a visiting nurse for one week. Communities of one thousand for two weeks, and larger communities for a month or longer.

Was It an Anniversary Ghost?

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

One night—it was 12 o'clock—a cabman was jogging along through Wall street, New York, half asleep on his box, when he was accosted from the sidewalk by a man whose apparel made coachy blink his eyes to assure himself that he saw aright. To begin at the top of his head, he wore a beaver hat with a large bell crown and a rim curled at the sides. His coat was very high in the collar, his necktie was voluminous lace, the buttons on his clothes were brass, his breeches were what we call knickerbockers.

Coachy drove to the sidewalk, and the gentleman, without asking permission, opened the door and stepped inside.

"To Greenwich," he called as he closed the door behind him.

"Up Greenwich street, sir?"

"Yes."

That part of New York which was originally Greenwich Village is several miles from where the stranger entered the coach, and the cabman would rather have declined to make a fare so late in the evening. But there was something about the stranger that was compelling. When the cab reached Greenwich and coachy asked for further instructions the man inside only said, "Drive on." Coachy seemed awed by the tone in which the words were spoken and dared not ask another question, so he drove on in the direction he was going, northward, till he reached the river bank. The man inside stepped from the cab without calling on coachy to stop, and when he touched the ground there seemed not to be the slightest shock. As he walked away he fixed his eyes on the cabman with a look that made him forget all about the omission to pay the fare. Indeed, a cold chill ran down the man's back. Going to the margin of the river, his figure seemed to float along, growing more and more indistinct till it was lost, as coachy thought, in the water. But this could not be, for there came from where he had disappeared a sound of oars. The sound passed up the river, gradually dying away in the distance.

Now, although the stranger had given no orders to the cabman to await his return, the latter felt no power to do otherwise. He did not think that by going away he would lose the money he had already earned; he remained fixed where he was by the lock his fare had given him when he walked away with that unearthly tread.

It was the season when the days are long and dawn begins about 3 o'clock. Coachy sat for perhaps an hour, perhaps two—he could never recall how long it was—waiting there on the river bank, with no human being near, for he says that he was not conscious of the surrounding traffic of the present day. He saw about him only the green bank of the river, behind him the village, in which all were wrapped in slumber. But he is not sure that he was awake, not sure but that he was dreaming. At any rate, he was oblivious to the stranger's return, for the first he knew of it he heard a voice ordering him to drive home. Rousing himself and looking down from the box, he saw his fare's face thrust without the window, looking up at him. The cabman will never forget that face. It was singularly handsome, though so pale as to be rather of the dead than of the living. The expression was that of one who had committed some dreadful crime, one who had killed some one. But in it there was no remorse. It was rather triumphant.

"Home!" said the stranger. The cabman did not know and did not dare ask where home was. He knew that he had taken up his fare on Wall street, and for that location he headed.

In the twilight the city seemed changed. All the landmarks of a metropolis were missing.

Turning out of Broadway at Wall street, he drove down till he reached the point where Broad joins it. This was where he had taken up his fare. Here, too, was not the office of the great banking house which is there, but a small brick dwelling. The stranger called on him to stop, and he drove up to the curb.

Coachy says that when this singular being alighted he cast his eye at a dwelling on the opposite side of Wall street a short distance down toward the East river and looked for a moment at it with malignant triumph; then, turning, without mentioning the money he owed for his ride, he mounted the steps of a dwelling before him and seemed to pass through the door without opening it.

Coachy was found that morning in a stupor on his box and about to fall. He was removed to a hospital, whence he did not emerge for several weeks. When he did so he narrated the adventure of that memorable night to a gentleman who happened to be a scholar. All the information he received was this:

The house the strange man entered was once occupied by Aaron Burr. Alexander Hamilton lived on the opposite side of Wall street a little way farther down toward the East river. The night of the adventure was the hundredth anniversary of the duel fought between Hamilton and Burr, in which Hamilton was killed.

Perhaps the vision came to the cabman as he was entering a severe illness rather than being the cause of it. The singular feature is that it should have come to an illiterate man.

IT'S SEVEN YEARS OLD

But Mr. Ellison Says It's Just as Good Today as When It Was First Made

Seven years ago Mr. Ellison testified to complete relief from kidney ills.

He now says that there has not been the slightest return of the trouble.

Brainerd sufferers will take a deal of comfort in Mr. Ellison's statement.

Read what he says:

Charles Ellison, 512 S. Quince St., Brainerd, says: "My kidneys were disordered for several years and seemed to be gradually getting worse. I was taken with such awful pains in my back that I had to go to bed. Medicine patched me up somewhat and I got out in a few weeks, but I continued to suffer severely. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at H. P. Dunn's drug store and a few boxes put me in good shape." (Statement given September 1st, 1908)

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER, Mr. Ellison said: "I can still recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. The benefit I got has lasted."

Priced 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Ellison has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advt.

There does not seem to be the exact team work in the democratic party of the state of Minnesota that is absolutely necessary to insure harmony and success all along the line. A branch of democrats have formed a state organization, separate from the other dyed in the wool organization, and will work for the election of Woodrow Wilson, ignoring the democratic state ticket entirely and being independent of the state and national committees.

W. E. Verity, editor of the Wadena Pioneer-Journal, and Miss Grace Cummins, head nurse at the Wadena hospital, were united in marriage at the Methodist church in Staples on Sunday morning. This is chronicled a very happy event in which the newspaper fraternity of this section of the state in particular and the entire state in general will be interested, and Mr. Verity, "Bill" we call him, and bride will receive the hearty congratulations of hosts of friends throughout the northwest. The newly weds left Staples following the ceremony for St. Paul in their car and will tour the east visiting the former home of the bride in Virginia before returning to their home at Wadena.

There seems to be a lack of interest being taken in the coming election called for the purpose of submitting amendments to the city charter and which will take place on Tuesday next, Sept. 12.—The result of this election is of more vital interest to every tax payer and resident of the city than any matter that has before come up for their consideration, as on it hinges the question of whether the city will be provided with power to levy sufficient funds with which to pay necessary current expenses or whether the city will be allowed to become bankrupt. The maximum amount in addition asked is but five and 1/2 mills above the rate now paid and would increase the levy from 10 1/2 to 16 mills. This would bring in $12,552.64 if all was paid, and it can readily be seen that the increase is an absolute necessity when the statement for the current year ended June 30th is consulted which shows a deficit of $12,768.09 with expenditures reduced to a minimum. The raising of the tax rate is more or less of a bugbear, and once proposed the cry immediately raised from among the class of citizens least affected, is extravagance in city affairs, and this has been the subject since the passage of the charter amendments was authorized and the plan placed before the people of providing for the expense of running the city's business. But many who object to the passage of the charter amendment do so without fully informing themselves of the facts in the case. No business can run for any great length of time if the fixed expenses exceed the income, bankruptcy is the inevitable result. Bemidji found herself in the same predicament and an increase in the tax levy for city purposes was necessary, their increase this year being about 15 mills, making the amount 32.4 mills against 20.60 mills last year. The assessed valuation of the city of Bemidji approximates $1,600,000, while the assessed valuation of Brainerd is $2,282,299.

"THE TARANTULA"

A tremendous showing that sometimes the man does pay instead of the woman. Considered by the critics to be the strongest production of the year

Where President Wilson Was Notified Of Nomination

Great preparations were made for the big celebration at Shadow Lawn, near Long Beach, N. J., on the occasion of the notification of President Wilson of his nomination. More than 5,000 persons were present to hear his speech of acceptance. This was the old home of John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance Company. It is one of the finest country homes in America.

PEARY SAW MIRAGE, NOT "CROCKER LAND"

New York, Sept. 6.—Ensign Fitzhugh Green, U. S. N., who accompanied Donald B. MacMillan in 1913 on his expedition in search of "Crocker Land," reached here on the Danish steamship United States from Copenhagen. He confirmed previous reports that "Crocker Land" does not exist. Peary, according to Green, claimed to have made his observations about 130 miles from the Greenland coast. MacMillan and Green traveled 150 miles and favored by clear weather they determined from observations and careful soundings that what Peary had seen was a mirage. This belief was further confirmed, Green said, by the fact that they themselves saw mirages.

Severe Storm Hits Winona.

Winona, Minn., Sept. 6.—A severe wind and rain storm which at times approached tornado proportions descended upon Winona, uprooted trees, shattered windows, unroofed small buildings and blew down a large ice house before it subsided. A box car standing on the siding at the local Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul tracks, started on a wild ride toward La Crosse, but stopped several miles below the city when the wind spent itself.

Victorious Boat Owner Dies.

Detroit, Sept. 6.—Edward Lyndon of Marine City, Mich., one of the builders of the Baby Marold, which burned after making a new world record in the hydroplane speed boat race Labor day, was drowned here after a gas explosion in the wreck of the boat. The Baby Marold had been towed ashore, and Lyndon was examining her when the explosion occurred Lyndon jumped into the water.

Frying Pans and Pie.

After a time the American frying pan unfortunately displaces the European pot, the more palatable white bread supersedes the substantial loaf of rye, and the more healthful kitchen or kolatchi is displaced by pie, which crowns every American table and impairs the national digestion.—Dr. E. A. Steiner at Chautauqua.

FAMOUS HORSEBACK RIDERS.

Men Who Won Fame in the Days of the Old Pony Express.

Buffalo Bill Cody, it is believed, holds the record for the longest horseback ride of which there is authentic record. He was one of that gallant band of four score pony express riders in the sixties. On one occasion young Cody—he didn't become Buffalo Bill until some years afterward—rode without rest for 322 miles.

When the pony express was started for the purpose of carrying mail from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sacramento, Cal., a distance of 1,966 miles, it was planned that each rider should cover seventy-five miles in a day on three different horses.

It was soon found that twenty-five miles was too much for the horses for a regular unbroken gallop, and the distance was reduced to from ten to twelve miles. For that distance every horse was pushed to his limit.

The shortest time in which the entire distance of 1,966 miles was covered by pony express riders was made in March, 1881. They carried Lincoln's inaugural address to the Golden State in seven days and seventeen hours, an average speed of over ten and one-half miles an hour.

A rider named Haslam dashed off 120 miles in 8 hours and 10 minutes. Another pony expressman covered one ten mile stretch in 31 minutes, which is better than most of the Rocky Mountain railroad limited trains can do. The news that Fort Sumter had been fired upon was dashed from St. Joe to Sacramento in eight days and four hours.

Jim Moore once rode 280 miles at an average speed of eighteen miles per hour. The horses were the best that could be obtained, and, as stated before, they made short runs of from ten to twelve miles.

No wonder that sometimes a letter had $27 worth of stamps upon it when carried under such extraordinary conditions!—Philadelphia Ledger.

TOLD BY THREE FIGURES.

A Sum in Arithmetic That Would Take Many Lifetimes to Work Out.

What is the highest number that can be expressed with only three figures? Such is the question put by the Journal of the Astronomical Society of England. At first glance it would seem that the number was 999. But it is nothing of the sort; 999 is far away too small. What, then, is the number? 999—that is to say, the ninth power of the ninth power of 9. To ascertain what this number actually is we must refer to a table of logarithms, for it would take several lifetimes to do the multiplication. The number contains 339,933,100 figures. To write it out we should have to fill 23 volumes of 800 pages each, with 14,000 figures to a page, and the number would be greater than that of all the atoms in creation.

Henri Coupin points out in La Nature that there are stars so distant that their light, traveling at 186,320 miles a second, takes a million years to reach the earth. Astronomers have taken this as a unit and called it a "million light year." The number of atoms in a sphere of platinum that had that radius would be 225, followed by 88 zeros. Now, a sphere that contained the number of atoms expressed by the ninth power of 9 would have to have a radius (in million light years) of 1,239, followed by 23,231,000 zeros.

And yet this colossal number can be expressed by three figures.

Tame Silk.

There is more silk in the world than the silkworm ever knew. As a matter of fact, much of the "silk" which is worn is merely gun cotton in a new dress. It is merely cotton dissolved in a bath of nitric acid, kept water free by the strongest viriol. The jelly-like result is then forced through very minute tubes, and the fine threads so produced are dropped into water and rendered innocuous by ammonium sulphide. This "tame silk" has a fine luster and has all the flexibility of the worms' work. In fact, so close is the resemblance that it needs an expert to distinguish them.—London Chronicle.

She Liked Gloom.

It is a matter for thankfulness that widows of this generation are more sensible than the dowager Countess of Buchan, who passed away in the year 1785.

On the death of her husband she dressed herself entirely in black crape, engaged two black servants to wait upon her, ate nothing but black puddings and drank for one whole year nothing but black cherry brandy. Yet she survived this gloomy diet twenty-one years before the grim reaper gathered her in.—T. P.'s London Weekly.

Valuable Guidance.

"Are your children much of a help and a comfort?" "Yes, indeed. I can always depend on them to tell me where the best moving pictures are to be found."—Washington Star.

An Extremist.

They were discussing love and the extraordinary things which that powerful emotion compels otherwise sensible people to do. Mr. Simpkins was mentioned as an instance.

Victorious Boat Owner Dies.

Detroit, Sept. 6.—Edward Lyndon of Marine City, Mich., one of the builders of the Baby Marold, which burned after making a new world record in the hydroplane speed boat race Labor day, was drowned here after a gas explosion in the wreck of the boat. The Baby Marold had been towed ashore, and Lyndon was examining her. When the explosion occurred Lyndon jumped into the water.

Frying Pans and Pie.

After a time the American frying pan unfortunately displaced the European pot, the more palatable white bread superseded the substantial loaf of rye, and the more healthful chicken or lambsteak is displaced by pie, which crowns every American table and impairs the national digestion.—Dr. E. A. Stahner at Chautauque.

FAMOUS HORSEBACK RIDERS.

Men Who Won Fame in the Days of the Old Pony Express.

Buffalo Bill Cody, it is believed, holds the record for the longest horseback ride of which there is authentic record. He was one of that gallant band of four-score pony express riders in the sixties. On one occasion young Cody—he didn't become Buffalo Bill until some years afterward—rode without rest for 322 miles.

When the pony express was started for the purpose of carrying mail from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sacramento, Cal., a distance of 1,933 miles, it was planned that each rider should cover seventy-five miles in a day on three different horses.

It was soon found that twenty-five miles was too much for the horses for a regular unbroken gallop, and the distance was reduced to from ten to twelve miles. For that distance every horse was pushed to his limit.

The shortest time in which the entire distance of 1,933 miles was covered by pony express riders was made in March, 1881. They carried Lincoln's inaugural address to the Golden State in seven days and seventeen hours, an average speed of over ten and one-half miles an hour.

A rider named Haslam dashed off 120 miles in 8 hours and 10 minutes. Another pony expressman covered one ten mile stretch in 31 minutes, which is better than most of the Rocky Mountain railroad limited trains can do. The news that Fort Sumner had been fired upon was flashed from St. Joe to Sacramento in eight days and fourteen hours.

Jim Moore once rode 280 miles at an average speed of eighteen miles per hour. The horses were the best that could be obtained, and, as stated before, they made short runs of from ten to twelve miles.

No wonder that sometimes a letter had $27 worth of stamps upon it when carried under such extraordinary conditions!—Philadelphia Ledger.

TOLD BY THREE FIGURES.

A Sum in Arithmetic That Would Take Many Lifetimes to Work Out.

What is the highest number that can be expressed with only three figures? Such is the question put by the Journal of the Astronomical Society of England. At first glance it would seem that the number was 999. But it is nothing of the sort; 999 is far away too small. What, then, is the number? 999—that is to say, the ninth power of the ninth power of 9. To ascertain what this number ac-

ally is we must refer to a table of logarithms, for it would take several lifetimes to do the multiplication. The number contains 339,933,100 figures. To write it out we should have to fill 23 volumes of 800 pages each, with 14,000 figures to a page, and the number would be greater than that of all the atoms in creation.

Henri Coupin points out in La Nature that there are stars so distant that their light, traveling at 186,320 miles a second, takes a million years to reach the earth. Astronomers have taken this as a unit and called it a "million light year." The number of atoms in a sphere of platinum that had that radius would be 225, followed by 88 zeros. Now, a sphere that contained the number of atoms expressed by the ninth power of the ninth power of 9 would have to have a radius (in million light years) of 1,239, followed by 123,231,000 zeros.

And yet this colossal number can be expressed by three figures.

Tame Silk.

There is more silk in the world than the silkworm ever knew. As a matter of fact, much of the "silk" which is worn is merely gun cotton in a new dress. It is merely cotton dissolved in a bath of nitric acid, kept water free by the strongest virgins. The jelly-like result is then forced through very minute tubes, and the fine threads so produced are dropped into water and rendered innocuous by ammonium sulphide. This "tame silk" has a fine luster and has all the flexibility of the worms' work. In fact, so close is the resemblance that it needs an expert to distinguish them.—London Chronicle.

She Liked Gloom.

It is a matter for thankfulness that widows of this generation are more sensible than the dowager Countess of Buchan, who passed away in the year 1786.

On the death of her husband she dressed herself entirely in black crape, engaged two black servants to wait upon her, ate nothing but black puddings and drank for one whole year nothing but black cherry brandy. Yet she survived this gloomy diet twenty-one years before the grim reaper gathered her in.—T. P.'s London Weekly.

Fund Will Not be Replenished Until December Settlement—Hopes Amendment Carries

Braingerd's current expense fund is wiped out and about $300 overdrawn and City Treasurer A. M. Opsahl has stopped paying warrants drawn on the current expense fund of the city. In an interview with Mr. Opsahl, he explained the situation. The fund in bad shape is the current expense fund. No revenue is to be gotten until the next settlement with the county some time in December.

"I have quit paying warrants drawn on the current expense fund to protect myself and the city," said Mr. Opsahl.

"On September 1 there was a balance of $204.13 in the current expense fund, which has now been entirely wiped out and about $300 overdrawn."

"Citizens of Brainerd ought to have pride enough to carry the amendment at the coming special election. Our present income does not provide sufficient revenue to pay city officers, police and fire departments and other necessary current expense," said Mr. Opsahl.

CORN MATURED IN THE COUNTY

"Cod" Kimball Exhibits Fine Samples of "Minnesota 23" Raised on His Farm in Mission

FROM HOME GROWN SEED

Proves that Northern Grown Seed is the Proper Thing for Crow Wing County

Just 92 days from the time of planting, corn raised from home grown seed has matured on the farm of "Cod" Kimball in section 6 of the town of Mission. The variety is "Minnesota 23" and Mr. Kimball exhibited samples in Brainerd which showed well developed ears and every kernel in fine shape.

"It proves without question that the seed to plant in Crow Wing county for a corn crop is seed grown in northern Minnesota," said Mr. Kimball. "I have raised this variety of corn the past 31 years. Southern seed planted in this county will require three weeks more to mature."

Mr. Kimball has seven and a half acres in clover. The sandy, black loam makes an ideal soil for raising corn or clover. Clover is one of the most profitable crops a man can raise in the county and sold as seed commands a high price, as northern grown seed has that hardy quality which guarantees big crops.

Mr. Kimball is a booster for Crow Wing county and it is good to hear him expatiate on the merits of his home county.

Former Brainerd Men Die

The Little Falls Transcript in recording the death of Loren Cooley, mentions of which was made in the Dispatch yesterday, says death was caused from the infirmities of old age after an illness of four months, his age being 77 years.

He was born Sept. 8, 1839, in Chenango county, New York. He was married Oct. 22, 1865, at Mount Gilthead, O., and came to Minnesota 31 years ago. He lived in the southern part of the state for three years and at Brainerd for 17 years before moving to Little Falls, where he had lived 11 years. He was formerly a foreman in the railroad shops at Brainerd and was a machinist. He served three years during the Civil War in the First Ohio light artillery and was a member of Pap Thomas post, G. A. R., at Brainerd.

A delegation of Northern Pacific officials and shopmen left for Little Falls this afternoon to attend the funeral, going in automobiles owned by H. A. Lyndon, Edward Crust and C. W. McKay. Among the party were J. P. Anderson, Edward Crust, J. C. Davis, H. A. Lyndon, R. A. Greger, Wm. Brown, G. F. Mitchell, Jos. Kiebler, C. D. McKay, Geo. Whitney, Gus Woerner and Geo. Fox.

A Fargo dispatch says that Wm. H. White, a son of the late Lyman P. White of this city, and a Red River Valley pioneer, died at his home in that city Monday evening from heart disease. Mr. White was a native of Vermont, coming west in 1870 and settling in Brainerd where he resided for two years, his father being located here as agent for the Lake Superior & Puget Sound company. In 1872 he moved to Fargo and engaged in the lumber business.

Mr. White for several years was president of the Red River Valley university, a Methodist institution at Wahpeton, N. D., which is now the Wesley college of Grand Forks, and was prominent in Masonic circles. He is survived by his widow.

A change has been made in the bill at the Best theatre. The ordinary comic reels have been discontinued and educational films have been substituted.

There were travel pictures, showing scenes along the route of the Lincoln highway, white faced cattle grazing near the road, towering mountains, sheep herded by $1,500 shepherd dogs, prairie schooners, etc.

CARS MET NEAR BARROWS

Dr. J. G. Millspaugh's Buick and MacPherson's Dodge Collide on Monday Evening

(Little Falls Transcript)

Dr. J. G. Millspaugh's automobile was damaged Monday night on the Brainerd road when another car, driven by a Brainerd man named McPherson, an employee of the railroad shops, ran into it three miles this side of Brainerd. One of the front wheels of Dr. Millspaugh's car was smashed and one fender broken. The other car had both front wheels smashed.

Dr. Millspaugh says that he was driving carefully, as he had met three or four cars going at a high rate of speed and that when he saw this car coming fast he pulled out as far as possible and gave it plenty of room to pass, but it struck his front wheel. He says the difference in the speed of the two cars was shown by the fact that his car slid only a few feet, while the other machine, with five men in it, skidded about 40 feet.

Dr. Millspaugh states that McPherson promised to settle for the damages and admitted that it was his fault. Only two persons were in the doctor's car, himself and his son Mark. No one was injured.

A. M. Opsahl has taken photographs of the scene of the accident. Dr. Millspaugh's car is shown drawn up at the extreme right of the road, at the very margin near the ditch. The other car is shown, both having their horns locked.

Of the MacPherson side of the story, it is said his claims he was blinded by the lights of the doctor's car.

County Exhibit At State Fair

BY V. E. MICHEL.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) St. Paul, Sept. 6.—In the northern Minnesota group, Beltrami and Crow Wing county show up very well. Morrison also has an interesting exhibit.

Marl is one of the oddities of the Crow Wing county exhibit, efficiently being shown by E. A. Colquhoun, Brainerd, county agricultural agent of the county. This marl thing is a carbonate. The county doesn't produce lime, so somebody had to go out and discover marl. It is used to neutralize acidified ground. Farmers welcome acidified ground about like the W. C. T. U. booth on the grounds would welcome a saloon keeper. The ground, under the influence of acid rains. That killed alfalfa, which is quite a product in this state. The marl deposits are found in the lower mining country.

One forms an interesting part of this exhibit. There are 20 iron mines in this county. Grasses and corn that will run 35 bushel to the acre, form another interesting feature of the exhibit.

The Spotlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE.

(From New York Tribune)

A few days ago we figured that Edward Plank, the Gettysburg Guide, was the leading hero of the 1916 campaign.

We are beginning to indulge in a faint gray hunch that we were wrong. Plank is one of the game's wonders, a marvel beyond all debate. But we doubt very much if even Plank has quite reached the heroic heights attained by Joe Bush, who has come as close to a Miracle Season as any pitcher we have ever known.

You have heard of pitchers before who have won thirty or forty games. But how often have you heard of one pitcher turning in over half the victories rung up by an entire club through an entire season?

Not very often. We recall no case at this writing, but Bush has this opportunity ahead. So far he has won fourteen games, or more than the rest of the staff put together. And in winning these games Bush was called upon to use an abnormal amount of stuff, as the Mackian record might indicate.

The fact that he was able to turn in a no-hit game is merely a crowning incident to a wonderful year—all the more wonderful when you figure what the Mackmen have done with other good pitchers in the box. The work that Bush has done this season, if it had been used for a first division club, would have made him the leading winner in the American league—on a par with Alexander of the National.

As it is, only eight other pitchers have won more games, and these have all been with clubs well up in the race.

The above clipping was received from a New York friend by Postmaster H. P. Dunn.

"If we had Bush with the Yanks, we'd win the pennant," wrote Mr. Post to Mr. Dunn.

CORN MATURED IN THE COUNTY

"Cod" Kimball Exhibits Fine Samples of "Minnesota 23" Raised on His Farm in Mission

FROM HOME GROWN SEED

Proves that Northern Grown Seed is the Proper Thing for Crow Wing County

Just 92 days from the time of planting, corn raised from home grown seed has matured on the farm of "Cod" Kimball in section 6 of the town of Mission. The variety is "Minnesota 23" and Mr. Kimball exhibited samples in Braingerd which showed well developed ears and every kernel in fine shape.

"It proves without question that the seed to plant in Crow Wing county for a corn crop is seed grown in northern Minnesota," said Mr. Kimball. "I have raised this variety of corn the past 31 years. Southern seed planted in this county will require three weeks more to mature."

Mr. Kimball has seven and a half acres in clover. The sandy, black loam makes an ideal soil for raising corn or clover. Clover is one of the most profitable crops a man can raise in the county and sold as seed commands a high price, as northern grown seed has that hardy quality which guarantees big crops.

Mr. Kimball is a booster for Crow Wing county and it is good to hear him expatiate on the merits of his home county.

Former Braingerd Men Die

The Little Falls Transcript in recording the death of Loren Cooley, mention of which was made in the Dispatch yesterday, says death was caused from the infirmities of old age after an illness of four months, his age being 77 years.

He was born Sept. 8, 1839, in Chenango county, New York. He was married Oct. 22, 1865, at Mount Gilboa, O., and came to Minnesota 31 years ago. He lived in the southern part of the state for three years and at Braingerd for 17 years before moving to Little Falls, where he had lived 11 years. He was formerly a foreman in the railroad shops at Braingerd and was a machinist. He served three years during the Civil War in the First Ohio light artillery and was a member of Pap Thomas post, G. A. R., at Braingerd.

A delegation of Northern Pacific officials and shopmen left for Little Falls this afternoon to attend the funeral, going by automobiles owned by H. A. Lyndon, Edward Crust and C. W. McKay. Among the party were J. P. Anderson, Edward Crust, J. C. Davis, H. A. Lyndon, R. A. Cregar, Wm. Brown, G. F. Mitchell, Jos. Kiebler, C. D. McKay, Geo. Whitney, Cas Woerner and Geo. Fox.

A Fargo dispatch says that Wm. H. White, a son of the late Lyman P. White of this city, and a Red River Valley pioneer, died at his home in that city Monday evening from heart disease. Mr. White was a native of Vermont, coming west in 1870 and settling in Braingerd where he resided for two years, his father being located here as agent for the Lake Superior & Puget Sound company. In 1872 he moved to Fargo and engaged in the lumber business.

Mr. White for several years was president of the Red River Valley university, a Methodist institution at Wahpeton, N. D., which is now the Wesley college of Grand Forks, and was prominent in Masonic circles. He is survived by his widow.

NEW POLICY AT BEST THEATRE

Ordinary Comic Reels are Discontinued and Educational Films are Substituted

BIRD LIFE SHOWN LAST NIGHT

Travel Pictures Along the Lincoln Highway—Jeff and Mutt Go to the Express

A change has been made in the bill at the Best theatre. The ordinary comic reels have been discontinued and educational films have been substituted.

Last night scenes were shown of bird life in Oregon, of the pupils in schools building bird houses, their efforts to make the birds at home and to protect them in their sallies against injurious insects.

There were travel pictures, showing scenes along the route of the Lincoln highway, white faced cattle grazing near the road, towering mountains, sheep herded by 1500 shepherd dogs, prairie schooners, etc.

Mr. Workman is confident the efforts made to get the best in the picture world are appreciated by the growing list of patrons of that popular amusement center.

CARS MET NEAR BARROWS

Dr. J. G. Millsbaugh's Buick and MacPherson's Dodge Collide on Monday Evening

(Little Falls Transcript)

Dr. J. G. Millsbaugh's automobile was damaged Monday night on the Braingerd road when another car, driven by a Braingerd man named MacPherson, an employee of the railroad shops, ran into it three miles this side of Braingerd. One of the front wheels of Dr. Millsbaugh's car was smashed and one fender broken. The other car had both front wheels smashed.

Dr. Millsbaugh says that he was driving carefully, as he had met three or four cars going at a high rate of speed and that when he saw this car coming fast he pulled out as far as possible and gave it plenty of room to pass, but it struck his front wheel. He says the difference in the speed of the two cars was shown by the fact that his car slid only a few feet, while the other machine, with five men in it, skidded about a foot.

Dr. Millsbaugh states that MacPherson promised to settle for the damages and admitted that it was his fault. Only two persons were in the doctor's car, himself and his son Mark. No one was injured.

A. M. Opsahl has taken photographs of the scene of the accident. Dr. Millsbaugh's car is shown drawn up at the extreme right of the road, at the very margin near the ditch. The other car is shown, both having their horns locked.

Of the MacPherson side of the story, it is said he claims he was blinded by the lights of the doctor's car.

Blessed Ignorance. "How much does it cost you to run this yacht, old chap?" "If I knew I wouldn't do it."—Life.

County Exhibit At State Fair

BY V. E. MICHEL.

(United Press Staff Correspondent) St. Paul, Sept. 6.—In the northern Minnesota group, Beltrami and Crow Wing county show up very well. Morrison also has an interesting exhibit.

Marl is one of the oddities of the Crow Wing county exhibit, efficiently being shown by E. A. Colquhoun, Braingerd county agricultural agent of the county. This marl thing is a carbonate. The county doesn't produce lime, so somebody had to go out and discover marl. It is used to neutralize acidified ground. Farmers welcome acidified ground about like the W. C. T. U. booth on the grounds would welcome a saloon keeper. The ground, under the influence of acid rains. That killed alfalfa, which is quite a product in this state. The marl deposits are found in the lower mining country.

One forms an interesting part of this exhibit. There are 20 iron mines in this county. Grasses and corn that will run 25 bushel to the acre, form another interesting feature of the exhibit.

The Spotlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE.

(From New York Tribune)

A few days ago we figured that Edward Plank, the Gettysburg Guide, was the leading hero of the 1916 campaign.

We are beginning to indulge in a faint gray hunch that we were wrong. Plank is one of the game's wonders, a marvel beyond all debate. But we doubt very much if even Plank has quite reached the heroic heights attained by Joe Bush, who has come as close to a Miracle Season as any pitcher we have ever known.

You have heard of pitchers before who have won thirty or forty games. But how often have you heard of one pitcher turning in over half the victories rung up by an entire club through an entire season?

Not very often. We recall no case at this writing, but Bush has this opportunity ahead. So far he has won fourteen games, or more than the rest of the staff put together. And in winning these games Bush was called upon to use an abnormal amount of stuff, as the Macklin record might indicate.

The fact that he was able to turn in a no-hit game is merely a crowning incident to a wonderful year—all the more wonderful when you figure what the Mackmen have done with other good pitchers in the box. The work that Bush has done this season, if it had been used for a first division club, would have made him the leading winner in the American league—on a par with Alexander of the National.

As it is, only eight other pitchers have won more games, and these have all been with clubs well up in the race.

The above clipping was received from a New York friend by Postmaster H. P. Dunn.

"If we had Bush with the Yanks, we'd win the pennant," wrote Mr. Post to Mr. Dunn.

He Did. "Love is a tender thing," said he. "Then why not tender let?" said she timidly.

Where Every One is a "Majesty."
Who are the politest people in Europe? If common speech is any criterion, surely the Spaniards must carry off the palm. The author of "Heroic Spain" tells of many high flown phrases still in common use. You bid farewell with "Beso a v. la mano" (I kiss your hand) or "A los pies de v." (I am at your feet). The "usted," shortened to v., with which you address high or low, is a corruption of "your majesty." The love of abbreviations is a curious trait in a people with such leisurely ways; thus a row of calligraphic letters ends a letter: S. S. Q. B. S. M., which means that your correspondent kisses your hand—"su seguro servidor que besa su mano."

SENATE PASSES REVENUE BILL

Webb Amendment Withdrawn to Secure Result.

INDORSE STEPS AGAINST ALLIES

Measure Rushed to Conference to Hasten Adjournment—Five Republicans, Including Senator Clapp, Aid Democrats.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The administration emergency revenue bill, designed to raise $295,000,000 annually from taxes on inheritances and war munitions and from increases in the income tax, creating a tariff commission; establishing a protective tariff on dyestuffs, providing for protection of American firms from "dumping" at the end of the war, and giving the president authority to take drastic retaliatory steps against allied interference with American trade was passed by the senate. The vote was 42 to 16.

Eliminating the usual formalities to insure adjournment of congress by Thursday at the latest, the senate rushed the measure, the last on the administration legislative program, immediately to conference.

Five Republican senators, Cummins, Kenyon, La Follette, Norris and Clapp voted for the bill. There were no Democratic nays.

By a vote of 55 to 5 the Senate rejected Senator Underwood's motion, thus retaining the tariff commission section of the bill.

Lee's Amendment Accepted.

An amendment offered by Senator Lee of Maryland and accepted, extends to all men in the service the benefits of the law appropriating $2,000,000 for relief of dependents of national guardsmen and regulars sent to the border in response to President Wilson's call, June 18. The amendment also makes the law retroactive to the day of the call.

Passage of the bill and adjournment of congress were threatened for a time by an attempt to attach to the measure the Webb bill desired by the president, permitting American firms to establish collective selling agencies abroad.

When Senator Lewis submitted the bill as an amendment he was promptly assured by Senator La Follette that it would provoke prolonged discussion. Senator Lewis thereupon withdrew the amendment, announcing it will be pressed as a separate measure.

Amendments designed to provide means of retaliation against Great Britain for embargoes on American goods, the trade blacklist and interference with the mails were agreed to without roll call and were unopposed in debate.

$1,000,000 IS ISSUED FOR CROP MOVEMENT

St. Paul, Sept. 6.—To supply the initial demand for moving crops the Ninth Federal Reserve bank has issued more than $1,000,000 worth of currency during the past week.

Shipments of currency from points outside the district to supply this demand last year were reduced to less than $1,000,000, and this year the bank expects to handle the demand without assistance.

The bank has in circulation at present approximately $12,000,000 worth of federal reserve notes, and this amount will be increased during the fall period, according to John H. Rich, federal reserve agent.

ORDER IRON ORE RATES CUT

Shipments Originating in Minnesota Are Affected.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The interstate commerce commission has ordered decreases in the freight rate on iron ore from Toledo and other ports to points in the East.

The proceedings involve shipments of ore originating in Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, from the lower Lake Erie ports to points in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania. The traffic amounts to about 25,000,000 long tons annually and yields to the rail carriers a revenue of about $20,000,000. The decision directs the carriers to adjust rates, rules and regulations, as outlined, by Dec. 1.

NONUNION MEN PROTESTING

Eight-Hour Law Ignores 1,500,000 Railroad Employees.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Employees of the railroads other than members of the four brotherhoods are making a determined fight on the Adamson eight-hour law, according to Robert T. Frazier, employee of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad.

He said he had obtained many signatures to a petition to congress protesting against the law.

Mr. Frazier has left for Pittsburgh and following a visit to Philadelphia and New York will go to Washington to present his petition to congress.

He asserts the new law affects only 400,000 men and ignores 1,500,000 other railroad employees.

SUGGESTIONS TO SETTLE STRIKE

Would Prohibit Shipment of Goods Made In Long Hours.

LABOR LEADERS SEEKING IT

If Supreme Court Holds Child Labor Law Constitutional the Fight Will Be Instituted—Long Hours of Those Who Work on Farms Are Criticized Also.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—One suggestion is made in connection with the proposed railroad legislation which would put in effect the eight hour plan all over the country and settle once for all that much agitated question. It is that a provision should be added to the recommendation of the president making it impossible to ship by interstate carriers any goods unless all component parts were produced by eight hour labor.

If the child labor law is held constitutional it is well known that labor organizations propose to have such a measure as suggested pressed in congress, but there will never be a better opportunity than during the consideration of the eight hour measure for the railroads.

Make It Apply to Farms.

"If such a bill is passed I hope they will make it apply to farms as well as factories," remarked a man who had spent his boyhood on a farm. "The long hours on the farm should be curtailed if long hours in shops, factories and on the railroads should be shortened."

One leading labor man said that there was just as much justification for barring the shipment of goods made by more than eight hours of labor as there was for making the railroad man's day one of eight hours.

As this question develops it will be found a big and interesting problem.

Chamberlain Versus Hay.

For four years Chairman Chamberlain and Chairman Hay of the two military committees have been in constant disagreement, scrapping over what ought to be done for the army. Hay has been holding back and opposed advanced legislation. For many months after President Wilson had changed his mind on preparedness Hay maintained his former attitude. In fact, he scarcely changed after the president had done so, but rather grudgingly granted what was demanded. However, even then he could not agree with Chamberlain, who went much further in the matter of military preparation than the president recommended, but finally had the president's support.

As to which man, Chamberlain or Hay, won out, it looks like a drawn battle. Chamberlain got the best of it in the legislation, but Hay got a life job on the court of claims.

Hughes and Wilson.

The interesting question has been about the candidates and which has been making the greatest headway. "While Hughes has been campaigning in the west," remarked a Democrat, "Wilson has been traveling and talking; Wilson has been staying on the job and working. In my opinion he is winning the most votes by his methods."

"But," interjected a Republican, "there is where you are mistaken. The more Wilson does the more votes he loses."

And so it is a question of the kind of party glasses which are used.

One More Old Soldier Retired.

The senate will lose another old soldier of the civil war in the defeat of Senator Catron of New Mexico. Catron served four years on the Confederate side; but, unlike most men of the southern army, he did not become a Democrat. There are few more pronounced and stand pat Republicans in public life than this New Mexico senator.

Wines of the Sections.

"East is east, and west is west," wrote Rudyard Kipling, and he might have applied his song to the wine schedule in every revenue bill which comes up in congress. There is an old, lasting and determined war between the wines of California and those of the other states. Missouri, Ohio, New Jersey and Virginia produce wines, but for some reason they do not get quite the same treatment as the California wines, and any attempt to equalize the difference is met with strenuous opposition by the California men.

Brought His Fame Along.

There is no doubt that Oscar W. Underwood brought his fame from the house to the senate. He was a leader in the lower house, and his leadership is frequently mentioned in debates in the senate, particularly when he disagrees with his Democratic colleagues in regard to items in the revenue bill. Underwood thinks he knows the tariff, and he also thinks he knows the Democratic attitude toward it.

They Have to Come Back.

Had it not been for the new railroad problem it is likely that the members who are away in their campaigns might have been allowed to remain. Perhaps a quorum would have been necessary for a day or two, but not for several days and weeks. The absentees had to come back.

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact, to try your best, day in and day out, just fry inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate. It is a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible "waste," sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.

Where Every One is a "Majesty."
Who are the poorest people in Europe? If common speech is any criterion, surely the Spaniards must carry off the palm. The author of "Hercule Spahn" tells of many high flown phrases still in common use. You bid farewell with "Beso a v. la mano" (I kiss your hand) or "A los pies de v." (I am at your feet). The "usted," shortened to v., with which you address high or low, is a corruption of "your majesty." The love of abbreviations is a curious trait in a people with such leisurely ways; thus a row of calligraphic letters ends a letter: S. S. Q. B. S. M., which means that your correspondent kisses your hand—"su seguro servidor que besa su mano."

SENATE PASSES REVENUE BILL

Webb Amendment Withdrawn to Secure Result.

INDORSE STEPS AGAINST ALLIES

Measure Rushed to Conference to Hasten Adjournment—Five Republicans, Including Senator Clapp, Aid Democrats.
Washington, Sept. 6.—The administration emergency revenue bill, designed to raise $295,000,000 annually from taxes on inheritances and war munitions and from increases in the income tax, creating a tariff commission; establishing a protective tariff on dyestuffs, providing for protection of American firms from "dumping" at the end of the war, and giving the president authority to take drastic retaliatory steps against allied interference with American trade was passed by the senate. The vote was 42 to 16.
Eliminating the usual formalities to insure adjournment of congress by Thursday at the latest, the senate rushed the measure, the last on the administration legislative program, immediately to conference.

Five Republican senators, Cummins, Kenyon, La Follette, Norris and Clapp voted for the bill. There were no Democratic nays.
By a vote of 55 to 5 the Senate rejected Senator Underwood's motion, thus retaining the tariff commission section of the bill.

Lee's Amendment Accepted.

An amendment offered by Senator Lee of Maryland and accepted, extends to all men in the service the benefits of the law appropriating $2,000,000 for relief of dependents of national guardsmen and regulars sent to the border in response to President Wilson's call, June 18. The amendment also makes the law retroactive to the day of the call.
Passage of the bill and adjournment of congress were threatened for a time by an attempt to attach to the measure the Webb bill desired by the president, permitting American firms to establish collective selling agencies abroad.
When Senator Lewis submitted the bill as an amendment he was promptly assured by Senator La Follette that it would provoke prolonged discussion. Senator Lewis thereupon withdrew the amendment, announcing it will be pressed as a separate measure.
Amendments designed to provide means of retaliation against Great Britain for embargoes on American goods, the trade blacklist and interference with the mails were agreed to without roll call and were unopposed in debate.

$1,000,000 IS ISSUED FOR CROP MOVEMENT

St. Paul, Sept. 6.—To supply the initial demand for moving crops the Ninth Federal Reserve bank has issued more than $1,000,000 worth of currency during the past week.
Shipments of currency from points outside the district to supply this demand last year were reduced to less than $1,000,000, and this year the bank expects to handle the demand without assistance.
The bank has in circulation at present approximately $12,000,000 worth of federal reserve notes and this amount will be increased during the fall period, according to John H. Rich, federal reserve agent.

ORDER IRON ORE RATES CUT

Shipments Originating in Minnesota Are Affected.
Washington, Sept. 6.—The interstate commerce commission has ordered decreases in the freight rate on iron ore from Toledo and other ports to points in the East.
The proceedings involve shipments of ore originating in Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, from the lower Lake Erie ports to points in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania. The traffic amounts to about 25,000,000 long tons annually and yields to the rail carriers a revenue of about $29,000,000. The decision directs the carriers to adjust rates, rules and regulations, as outlined, by Dec. 1.

NONUNION MEN PROTESTING

Eight-Hour Law Ignores 1,500,000 Railroad Employees.
Chicago, Sept. 6.—Employees of the railroads other than members of the four brotherhoods are making a determined fight on the Adamson eight-hour law, according to Robert T. Frazier, employee of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad.
He said he had obtained many signatures to a petition to congress protesting against the law.
Mr. Frazier has left for Pittsburgh and following a visit to Philadelphia and New York will go to Washington to present his petition to congress.
He asserts the new law affects only 400,000 men and ignores 1,500,000 other railroad employees.

SUGGESTIONS TO SETTLE STRIKE

Would Prohibit Shipment of Goods Made In Long Hours.

LABOR LEADERS SEEKING IT

If Supreme Court Holds Child Labor Law Constitutional the Fight Will Be Instituted—Long Hours of Those Who Work on Farms Are Criticized Also.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—One suggestion is made in connection with the proposed railroad legislation which would put in effect the eight hour plan all over the country and settle once for all that much agitated question. It is that a provision should be added to the recommendation of the president making it impossible to ship by interstate carriers any goods unless all component parts were produced by eight hour labor.
If the child labor law is held constitutional it is well known that labor organizations propose to have such a measure as suggested pressed in congress, but there will never be a better opportunity than during the consideration of the eight hour measure for the railroads.
